Close Race Predicted As

Balloting Opens

She Talks But Says Very Little

(As told to Golden Gater reporter)

Why yes, Mr. Reporter, I certainly would like to discuss the election with you. I'm terribly interested in it, really. Oh yes, my husband told you about what he thought of the Presidential candidates, didn't he? Well then, the children and I will talk about the others.

Now, suppose we start off with the Vice-Presidency candidates. Two girls are running for the post, and honestly, Mr. Reporter, I just don't know who to vote for. It's between Dawn Wilson and Virginia Kyriazi, and they both have such nice records. . . .

Now, for Secretary I see we have lots of candidates. Kay Bailey, Pauline Quirk, Mary Snell, and Edith White. No. Mr. Reporter, I haven't yet decided which one I'll vote for. They all seem so nice, and I do think their election cards said the cutest things about them. Oh, it will be no fun trying to choose a person from the group. I think it would be a lot better if we let them all

With regard to the presidential struggle . . . the gory battle of Life-Savers versus Wrigley's . . . we'll call it a toss-up . . . mebbe a shade in favor the candy-passer.

The vice-presidential race looks as though it were about Dawn . . . just why we come out flat-footed and make this prediction we don't know . . . but that's the Tripewriter's bet.

Smith, Decker Close Vote Getting Campaigns Today

By LOUISE VALLARINO

Balloting today will close one of the hottest election fights for student offices ever seen at the college. With odds being practically even on all major offices, candidates are making a determined effort to swing the election by as large a majority as possible.

The presidential race, with Will J. J. Smith opposing Bud Decker, looms as the closest of the contests. A slim majority of only 50 or 75 votes is predicted by some people on the campus. Supporters of each candidate are predicting victory, with some claiming that the election will hinge on what support various organizations will throw to the candidates.

DECKER SPEAKS

Speaking to the student body, Decker stated, "I base my candidacy on the single word 'unity.' In the eyes of the law, we are one college, but we within ourselves know better. We are really two. College Hall on top of the hill with its 800 students, and the Music Department right below with some of the finest talent on the coast. Neither division is working together, and half the time are fighting each other. When we unify these two factions into one fighting student body, then may we hope to be a power beyond the immediate limitations of our own campus."

Will Smith presented a platform based on two points. One was the unity of all social and campus organizations into a group that would be united in the fight to put the name of San Francisco State College across to the state. With this view in mind, Smith declares for an enlarged public relations department with a special stress laid upon deputations.

"All that any candidate can do," declared Smith at the rally, "is to promise that he will give the college the most progressive administration possible. I realize that a candidate can not outline a rigid platform at this time; however, I will say this: San Francisco State needs a unity of all organizations and enlargement of its Public Relations Department to work towards a greater college."

THREE IN RACE

Closely paralleling the race for the presidency is the fight for the office of treasurer. Three candidates are in the field with the fate of the winner hinging upon the third and "dark horse" candidate, Frank Muldoon. Supporters of Leon Minear claim victory on the basis of two things: one is the Music Federation support, and the other is the expected splitting of the Mirande plurality by Muldoon. On the Mirande side, little was being said. Mirande is making the race on his record in student activities, stressing especially his record as Athletic Manager, and treasurer of the A. M. S.

Minear is basing his race upon his activities as Music Federation President, and his work in other activities.

Muldoon is making an active campaign. "I stand on my own feet," he declared at the rally. "I promise an impartial administration of this important office."

Dawn Wilson and Virginia Kyriazi are expected to put up a battle for votes.

Four candidates for secretaryship and three candidates for director of publications, as well as two competitors for the yell leadership fill out the bill of expectant office-seekers.

Who Wins Today Depends On Cigar

By PHINEAS Q. BYSTANDER

(As told to Golden Gater Reporter)

Well sir, this business of trying to decide whether to vote for Bud Decker or Will Smith in the election today is no easy job, I'm telling you. I don't know who I want to win, and I'm all mixed up. I've been going around looking at signs, election cards, pictures, posters, and a million other things, but they all say so many things it just keeps my head going around in a whirl.

I've been noticing that both of the boys are using a different technique in their appeals to the public. Decker, for instance, goes in for the written word and the slogan, the latter including some surefire tear-jerkers. "Think back who has done most for State"; "The People's Choice"; "Look at the Record, Then Vote For Decker". Besides this, heart-rending letters come to YOU and YOU, exhorting YOU to remember all that "Good ol' Bud" has done for State.

The Smith headquarters are using a different system. Their idea is that well-placed, attractive signs and pictures will do the trick. A whimsical smile on the face of their candidate is believed to be conducive to a sweeping majority at the polls.

Neither of the boys have passed out cigars, spoiling an old State tradition, so the first guy that hands me one will be the guy that gets my vote.

The Candidates' Platforms

"Every year students are asked to read campaign platforms written by aspirants for the various student body offices. Today, the day of elections, I ask you to consider mine. The most obvious and paramount problem facing State is the unification of College Hall and the Music Department into one student group which may justly be termed the Associated Students of San Francisco State College. It is my firm belief that the students comprising each of these two factions inwardly possess a small spark of group spirit but that spark needs fanning and kindling until it flames brightly to weld itself into one. For music to curse athletics and athletics to "razz" music is petty and wholly unnecessary and has no place in college life. When realization of this fact is generally acknowledged, then a firm basis will be established for meeting on common territory with mutual goals, and with inward confidence well lodged, then accomplishments beyond our campus will be easy. In short, I say to you of College Hall and to you of the Music Department, forget your personal animosity, let's get together and "play ball" with each other. To unite is not only a pleasure but an accomplishment, while to disintegrate is simply retardation."

BUD DECKER

To me the office of Student Body President is the highest honor which can be achieved by any student of the college. But it has ceased to be merely an honor. It is a responsibility as well and an increasingly heavy one too.

I feel sure that the student body of this college knows just what it wants in the way of a student president. The man must be, first of all, willing to make sacrifices to do his job well, and must be willing also to carry those sacrifices into his personal life, as I have consistently done during my college career.

Qualification number two, in my opinion, is the need for farsightedness and vision. There can be no building for the future and no expansion of activity unless there is both. A man of mature judgment is necessary to provide a balance between these two things.

San Francisco State College has a special need at this time, and should have a man specially trained to meet that need. No one who has worked on the Strategy Committee, as I have, can be blind to the need for favorable outside publicity for the college. My experience on the committee as well as my experience as a journalist puts me in an advantageous position. I feel confident I can meet this need.

WILLIAM J. J. SMITH.

More Tripe

White looks like the money in the pen-pusher's steeplechase, and we'll pick Delma to snake a large enough share of Oulette's feminine balloters to put him into office.

On account of Demeke and Barry are going to split the vote from their respective constituencies, Bill Rose may well pick up a plurality . . . in the runoff . . . ?

The four-way battle-royal for the three jobs open on the Board of Publications between Laugesen, Schutz, Keller and the Tripewriter will be a sight to see . . . ah yetz.

Drop around to the Student Body office around four-thirty, the results will be available, should Marion Irwin get aworkin' real hard

And for a snicker, almost all the candidates to office turned up at the Phi Lambda Chi dawnce . . . and very very lonesome.

What about "Duley" . . . with the gardenia gal as the lead and her "Heckie" playing opposite? . . . "Jake" Jacobs will play a straight role as Mr. Leach . . . Clem Zannini is slated to do "Mr. Forbes" about A-1 . . . anyway, these rehearsals seem to bring out a bit of romance between cast members . . . even if they aren't producing any super-drama.

Inspirations springing from Italian influence which have led to the further enrichment of American cultural life will be the subject of Mr. Ettore Cadorn, prominent figure in Italian colony in this city and a lecturer of note, at the next lecture in the World Tomorrow Series which will be held next Monday night at seven o'clock, at the Frederic Burk auditorium.

Mr. Beniamino Bufano, also well known in the local Italian colony, will introduce the speaker. He invites the public to hear this lecture. Admission is free.

win, don't you? Then we couldn't make any mistakes. . . .

Oh, for Treasurer? Well, I'm going to let Phineas decide that for me. I simply couldn't trust myself to vote on such an important position without his advice. Did you read the election cards that Leon Minear, George Mirande, and Frank Muldoon sent out? I thought they were simply divine . . . didn't you?

One candidate calls himself "The Logical Man," while another says he's "Experienced and Able". I just don't know what I'd do without Phineas to guide me in these problems. He's such a help, poor dear. . . .

The rest of the positions are just as confusing. For Yell Leader, there's Vernon Oulette and Hal "Monk" Delma. Don't you think that nickname "Monk" is just too cute I do, too. I would like to know which of the two put out the most signs advertising themselves. Isn't the place just full of them?

For Director of Publications, it seems to be between Bob Barry, Bill Rose, and Howard Demeke. Phineas is going to help me here, too. He knows so much about these things. I'm sure he'll tell me just who the right man is.

Oh, that's all right. Don't thank me, Mr. Reporter. I was glad to tell you my views on the situation here. I do hope I've helped you in judging all of the candidates. Say good-bye to the nice man, children. That's fine. Good-bye, Mr. Reporter. . . .

Line Drive In Tenth Gives 7-0 Win Over Aggies

Abbey Scores Stone To Break Deadlock In Mustang Game

By BILL ROSE

Poling out a long line drive over second base in the tenth inning of Saturday's game with the Cal-Aggies, Bill Abbey scored Ru Stone from third and broke up State's first extra-inning game of the season. The Gaters polished off the Ags, 7 to 6.

For eight innings the Staters trailed. Every time the Gaters attempted to balance the budget the Ags registered a few tallies of their own to again get out in front.

Going into the last of the eighth, State's chance to win seemed slight, the Gaters being behind 5 to 6. However, in this frame Ru Stone led off with a double to right, and Ken Wilkes belted up the ball game by smashing out a home run over the right-center field fence. Wilkes' hit was marked four bags from the minute it left his bat.

Both teams went scoreless in the ninth, but in the tenth Stone again opened up with a hit, this time a single. He was advanced to second when Kiyomura, Mustang hurler, booted Wilkes' sacrifice. Both runners moved around when "Spider" Turner walked. With the bag loaded, Abbey collected his fifth hit of the day and ended the contest. Abbey's hit would have been a double or even a triple at any other time in the game, but when the winning run was tallied the game immediately ended.

The Aggies grabbed the lead in the first frame. Stone got the first two batters, but Bill Durazo singled and legged itting from the post side, having the ball over the right field wall. The Aggies held their advantage until the final frame.

The Mustangs collected ten hits off Stone, Durazo getting four for five, while the Gaters knocked out fifteen safes off "Kiyo" Kiyomura. Abbey got four for six, pacing the Staters.

Football Squad IS NOT ALREADY PICKED—FARMER

Many Veterans Return to Squad; Schwarz Disguised As Quarterback

By TIM GUINEY

Don't quote me on this, but according to latest reports the State football team is starting to settle down to business in a regular "Die for dear ol' Rutgers" style, kicking and passing the poor old dented pigskin hither and yon with the greatest of ease. News reaching this office from the battle front may be called definitely encouraging.

The regular daily menu for the team, working out on the lower field, consists mostly of calisthenics, dummy tackling, and going through plays. Dan Farmer, doing a solo act as coach of the squad until Hal Harden finishes with the baseball team, seems to be well-satisfied with the way things are going.

Among the old-timers back from last season are Bill Harkness, Gordon Bolander, Bill Abbey, Bill Ferem, Bud Chandler, Pete Pedroni, Bob Kelnhofer, Bill Hammond, Hal Beseman, Dick Quarg, and others. It is also rumored that Maury Schwarz is in the quarterback spot for a very definite reason. Farmer will use him at the start of the game, and as soon as the players on the other squad see him, they will get over-confident. Then someone else on the team will call signals and sneak through to score.

Brilliant, what?

Wilkes Leads Tide in 16-6 Mariner Defeat

With Kenny Wilkes getting five hits and scoring as many runs, State's eccentric baseball team overwhelmed a good Mariner Junior College nine 16-6 last Thursday at Kentfield.

Having already defeated the Mariners in San Francisco, the Gaters were supposed to win in another close game, but the Purple sluggers had their batting eyes and proceeded to mash three Mariner hurlers for seventeen hits.

R. Greenwood, Schwarz, Draw In Fast Bout

Scores Two Knockdowns in Second, Misses Win By Slow Third

Winding up with a sizzling three-round doubtful draw between Maury Schwarz and Ray Greenwood, the card of the giant Ring Show as sponsored by the Block Society presented everything in the way of boxing and wrestling that the most ribald fan would look for. The affair was held in the women's gym last Thursday night.

Dropping his opponent twice, Schwarz looked to be an easy winner over the S. F. J. C. battler. However, the last minute rushes by Greenwood compared to the weak finish of Schwarz was what probably turned the judges' heads.

SCHWARZ DOES FIGHTING

Doing the kind of fighting that brought the crowd to its feet in the second round, Maury drove Greenwood across the ring with a flurry of rights and lefts, dropping him with a choppy right cross. Schwarz duplicated the feat again in the third, Greenwood taking a 9-count both times.

The semi-windup, featuring heavy-weights George Stewart of State and Dave Smith of Jaycee, also ended in a draw. Stewart, a former inter-collegiate wrestling champ, made Smith, who is to turn professional this week or next, look like a sucker at times. Possessing better foot-work and ring judgment, George gave his opponent a boxing lesson.

FEREM, DECKER DRAW

Tops in wrestling entertainment was presented by Staters Bud Decker and Bill Ferem. The bout was officially called a draw, although Decker was forced to quit, having become entangled in his equipment.

Bob Nolton of Jaycee took a one-fall victory over Ernie Delucchi of State to decide the heavyweight championship of the two institutions. Tom Thorp and Monk Delma presented the professional angle in the grunt and groan business in an entertaining farce.

Other boxing bouts included a two-round exhibition between Ken Johnson and Anderson, Ed Barros suffered a technical knock-out at the hands of Moon, and sluggers from Marina Junior Hi turned in a performance.

CREDIT DUE BLOCKS

According to George Bogdonoff, the show was just the beginning of inter-collegiate boxing for a Gater team. Plans are already being made to schedule a series of matches next semester.

Credit should be given to George Piava, matchmaker, Bogdonoff, and Schwarz for presenting a good show. Proceeds are to be used to buy additional equipment for the athletic department.

State Breaks Three Meet Records, But Chico Runs Away With Cinder Battle

Kuder, Hopkins, and Shreeve Smash Records in One-Sided Battle That Finds the Wildcats on the Long End of an 84-47 Score

By Ed Smith

And the Gater thin-clads went down to their second defeat of the season at the hands of the Chico State Wildcats last Saturday at the Chico field by the one-sided score of 84-47. Five meet records were smashed, three of them by Staters Kuder, Hopkins, and Shreeve in the mile, high hurdles, and 2-mile respectively.

Stan Kuder, ace distance man for the Gaters, defeated Manley of Chico and Bob Cota, Stan's running mate, in the fastest mile of the season in the time of 4:34.1. Kuder smashed the old meet record of 4:37.5 and the two-year old school mark of 4:36, both of his own making.

KUDER SHOWS FORM

The red-headed distance man showed perfect judgment of pace and timing while negotiating the four long laps. Trailing in third place with a half-lap to go, Kuder cut loose with a terrific kick to beat Manley to the wire by five yards.

Bufford "Biff" Shreeve furnished the second most important performance by finishing the 2-mile grind 4.6 seconds below the old meet record in the time of 10:11.9. Shreeve finished 25 yards ahead of "Pee Wee" Norman, the 90-lb. wonder of Chico.

Both Daryl Hopkins and Reams of Chico ripped the low-hurdle meet record into bits. Reams, however, finished first, turning in a fast 23.9, while Hopkins was just a half-yard behind with his 24 flat.

CHICO WINS DASHES

Displaying unusual power, the Wildcat sprinters practically swept the dash events. Reams tied an age old meet record of 9.9 seconds in the century to finish far in front. This mark is the oldest on the books. Davies of Chico furnished the speed in the 220 yard dash, winning in the fast time of 23.9 seconds.

The Wildcats had a far superior team to that of the Gaters, Ivan Campbell, Chico weight tosser, garnering 18 points to top the list of high scorers. The Wildcats, although not too deep in most of the events, were just one deep too much for the Gaters in the majority of the events.

May 3-7 Named Dates For Annual W. A. A. Week; Burrowes In Charge

Setting aside the dates of May 3 to 7 as W. A. A. Week, Eldris Burrowes, chairman, announced that plans for the second annual event are nearly complete for a big five-day colossus of activities.

The many features include a Shoe Clinic Demonstration by Sommer and Kaufmann Company, a baseball game between the W. A. A. members and the Men's Faculty, a demonstration by Kappa Delta Tau, a Faculty Day on which only members of the faculty will be admitted to the noon recreation, and an Evening Bracer to wind up the week's festivities.

W. A. A. Week was inaugurated last semester by Virginia Kyriazi and has proved to be a huge success. This semester, the organization is striving to make the celebration bigger and better than ever.

Catcher Catches

Paper Hat Award

To Bill Abbey, star catcher of the Gater baseball nine, mainstay of the squad and leading hitter with the highest batting percentage of any regular of all-times, goes the Gater Paper Hat award for outstanding performance during the week.

Abbey has consistently come through in the pinches with timely hits and brilliant performance behind the plate. However, Saturday's achievement topped all stellar play of the past.

Abbey, who dislikes the monicker of "Gabby", nosed out Stan Kuder of the track squad by one vote in the sports staff poll.

College Talent Featured At Gala Show

Friday night at Frederic Burk auditorium a show boat will puff into port, loaded with blackface comedians, tap dancers, songsters, group numbers and sparkling varieties. Captain Bud Decker will head the parade as Interlocutor and the end men will be Ed Cockrum and Vernon Reese.

Festivities will start at about 8:15 and will continue on until the last songster has seated himself. Captain Bud speaking about the coming affair said, "Undoubtedly we have taken most of the talent from the campus and combined it into one big show. We can promise variety, comedy, novelty, and thrills for the attendants."

The show, according to Decker, is built about a prologue and two acts and will feature some of the outstanding performers at the college. Helen Louise Cox, Lorraine Sullivan, Phil Ford, Frances Twohig, Iva Beth Cain, Clem Zannini, Audrey Stewart, Rita Sadler, Connie James and numerous others will appear.

The college theater orchestra under the direction of Howard Brubeck will furnish music. Tickets are under the supervision of Pat MacNamara. Special features will be the A Cappella Choir and the Jailbird Quartette.

It was emphasized by MacNamara that only five hundred tickets would be sold due to the space restrictions of the auditorium. Concessions will be handled throughout by Alpha Phi Gamma fraternity. Candy, ice cream, hot dogs, novelties will be sold.

Mirande On Ticket

This is the fifth in a series of articles concerning candidates running for office.

George Mirande's nomination for the office of treasurer has been approved by the executive board of the student body.

Mirande is now treasurer of the A. M. S. and the General Athletic Manager. In the past four years he has held the office of Treasurer of Block

"S" twice, Secretary of A. M. S. twice, and Coach of the Jr. Varsity Basketball team. He has been on the baseball and basketball teams for four years.

"I have been here long enough to see the college progress and have the interest of the college at heart. I have one thought in mind, to see the Student Body function as a unit and a square deal for every one," revealed Mirande.
